As asbestos regulations evolve at both the federal and state level, property and facility managers must stay up to date across all governing bodies including the NESHAP, DEP, and OSHA. In addition to dissecting the new requirements, the ARS training will also cover:

- When an asbestos survey may be required;
- What the responsibilities are of the property and facilities team prior to demolition or renovation;
- How to safely undertake an asbestos removal project;
- As well as best practices for identifying and preventing mold including renovation safety measures.

The complementary training session is open to all ARS clients and the public, but seating is limited. To register for the event please visit: <https://arsserve.com/safety-environmental-training/>.
